Family History Day a Great Success

Over 150 people from far and wide attended the Family History Day at St Mary's Church looking to find out information about past relatives. Historic parish archives from Wrawby, Brigg and Cadney going back to 1700 were brought from Lincoln. These allowed people to research into Baptism, Marriage and Funeral records. There were also displays from the Wrawby History Group as well as Family History Groups. There were a number of photographs of groups of Wrawby residents which some people were able to help identify, although surprisingly no-one could identify the children in the 1897 School photograph!

A very big thank you goes to Nigel Good for organising the event.

ORDINATION OF NEW CURATE

David Eames, the new Curate for Brigg, Cadney and Wrawby, will join us on Monday 30th June. David , who studied theology at Durham University, was ordained at Louth on the 29th June. He is married with two children. I am sure that you will all help to make him and his family welcome

ITS OFFICIAL - WE'VE BEEN HERE A VERY, VERY LONG TIME!!!

The report by the Archaeologists on the dig carried out last September on the Roman site in the village on behalf of the History Group, has at last been received.

The conclusion drawn from the evidence within the trenches dug and the minute investigative processes carried out during the 4 days on all material found is that "in the south of the area under investigation, an Iron Age enclosure was identified with internal structures, possible round houses. Iron Age pottery found suggests that occupation occurred in the Late Iron Age" approx 100BC.

"The north of the area revealed substantial evidence of Roman domestic occupation primarily during the 1st & 2nd centuries. A large elongated rectangular enclosure was discovered more than 110m long by 50m wide. This feature appeared to have a smaller enclosure within which remains of an aisled building were noted" (probably an agricultural building). "The pottery found indicated largely local trade patterns with some indication of more far flung trading contacts." Further minor investigations after the dig was completed discovered painter plaster which could indicate a more high status building attached to the aisled building but this was not investigated at all. We feel there is much more to be discovered on the site and we have only scratched the surface. We are still waiting for results from environmental samples taken which should show what crops were grown by these long ago residents and what plants formed the landscape. The full report will be available on the village web site in due course

To celebrate the conclusion of this archaeological project, the History Group are holding a spectacular Roman finale on the playing fields along side Wrawby Show which will also have a Roman theme on Saturday, 9th August.

As well as a marquee displaying the whole of the project including the dig and finds discovered, a group of Roman Re-enactors will be present, providing living history all day long including writing, coin stamping, a military encampment and a workshop. Three shows during the day will include shooting a catapult and a military display.

More details next month.

WHO DO YOU THINK YOU ARE?

The television series with the above title is one of made the Church their life's work - one from my my favourite programmes to watch as it traces the father's side becoming a priest and missionary to family trees of celebrities. But it is not just the famous who have fascinating family stories - each (he also wrote translations of the Scriptures for one of us has! One of the celebrities said "I'm pleased I did this now because it explains to me why I am like I am." None of us starts completely afresh; our characters, the way we are is often a result of our genes and the combined inheritance of the traits of our ancestors.

Last month's Family/Local History Day at Wrawby Church I hope gave some of you the inspiration and help to set about finding out more about your ancestors and tracing your Family tree. It was a privilege to be able to bring the various groups together and was something I'd hoped to do for some time. Genealogy is a fascinating interest and once you get started is addictive - so beware!

As far as my own research goes, I discover that I come from a long line of railwaymen (both from my mothers side and my fathers) stemming back to the beginning of railways - so it's no wonder I've followed in their footsteps. Others preceded me as Churchwardens of Wrawby church, a tradition I'm proud to continue. I discover that some the Canadian Indians, finally being mad a Canon. the Indians and books and theses have been written about him) - he was brought up and was a pupil here in Wrawby.

We do not walk this life alone - others have gone before us and so it is in our faith. This month we remember two of my favourite examples in the Church; St Thomas and William Wilberforce. For many of us, in spite of our efforts, there come moments of doubt, Thomas and Jesus' response to him shows that this is normal and healthy, because questioning our beliefs from time to time leads us on to a stronger faith. William Wilberforce inspires us to stand up for our beliefs- to challenge and fight when we believe something is wrong, even though everything seems to work against us and the odds seem stacked against us.

We are who we are because of those who have gone before us, whether it be our family or the heroes we commemorate. We, too, are creating a path for those who will follow us!

Nigel
